

Want to party with your pooch and enjoy one of the world's friendliest cities? Then don't miss Woofstock, in TORONTO, CANADA, the largest outdoor festival for dogs in all of North America. (One year it was beamed around the world on CNN.) Quirky and fun, Woofstock is a free-admission nonstop party that will take place the weekend of June 11-12 in the hip, newly expanded St. Lawrence Market Neighborhood, home to the world-famous food market as well as the dog-friendly Sunday Antique Market.

* Le Méridien King Edward/Toronto will pamper your pooch with a weekend of luxury in the heart of the city. Go for the King Edward's Deluxe Accommodation and you and Precious will be gifted with such doggie amenities as a canine mat and bowls. Don't forget to treat yourselves to the Doggie Afternoon Tea, available from room service.

Hit the waters of LAKE ONTARIO for a canoeing adventure with your dog. Paws & Paddle, at the Toronto Harbor Front on August 13, is a great day out with a small group of fellow dog lovers. You'll learn how to paddle a canoe with your best pal and then explore the lake's shoreline and stop for a picnic.

It is all about glamour, glitter, and fun when celebrity judges crown the Next Top Dog Models in PORTLAND, OREGON. This one-of-a-kind canine showdown takes place on June 16 at the Hotel Monaco, 6-8 p.m. Canine cat—er, dogwalkers will be judged on style, personality, and runway demeanor as they strut past cheering crowds. The Monaco offers a Portland Unleashed Pet Package for travelers who want to explore the city and its surrounding parks and hiking trails with their furry friends. With more than 37,000 acres of parkland—including America's largest urban wilderness, Forest Park—the city offers plenty of opportunities for outdoor play. And with nearly 40 breweries in the metro area—many of which are pet-friendly—there are plenty of opportunities to relax with Rex after a full day.

The package includes trail mix (for both of you), a hiking map of Forest Park, and a guide to pet-friendly breweries and restaurants—plus an Oregon microbeer for thirsty owners.

Take a walk on the wild side. MAINE's magnificent Acadia National Park has miles of rugged trails with spectacular views—and most of them allow dogs as long as they are on a six-foot-or-shorter leash. There's also an off-leash area at Little Long Pond.

Take Spike out to the ballgame! At Purina Pooches in the Ballpark in ST. LOUIS, fans with special tickets can take their furry friends to a designated section of Busch Stadium on June 25 for a Cardinals-Blue Jays game. There's also a full lineup of pregame activities to get your tails wagging. And while in St. Louis don't miss the AKC Museum of the Dog—where pups are also welcome.
